

The EthCo Interdisciplinary Tasks

Your future role: An Ethical Scotland in the Global Economy

17. The MDGs and Child Health

Aimed at a Curriculum for Excellence at all levels

Developing Global Citizens through An Interdisciplinary Approach

EthCo sets out to provide a task-based framework to allow young people to explore the United Nation's Millennium Development Goals, and how they impact on world poverty and growth. The concept of ethics in business is also investigated, and pupils will contextualise that within Scotland's place in the world economy. Through EthCo, pupils will be encouraged to see how the choices made by individuals within businesses, organisations and communities impact on economic life in their own and other countries. Using action-based enterprise activities they will take the first steps towards 'making a difference', through positive challenges to existing practices, illustrating that consumer and citizen power can impact on poverty reduction and economic success. Pupils will learn about, and raise awareness of, the 'Millennium Development Goals' to their families, their communities and local businesses. Young people are the employers, employees, and community activists of the future and EthCo hopes to embed a global perspective for the longer term. They, along with their teachers and their communities, hold the key to implementing actions which impact on the Millennium Development Goals. It is hoped that their energy and hope for the future may be harnessed, and their actions and attitudes affected, by learning global Citizenship through these tasks.

EthCo will provide approaches and materials within a 'Curriculum for Excellence' to link together Development Education, Enterprise Education, Financial awareness, understanding of business, citizenship education, education for sustainable development, and other cross-cutting themes. These are brought together in the EthCo interdisciplinary Tasks and, since the tasks contribute to many of the Learning Outcomes in the Curricular Areas of CfE, can be built in as part of the on-going curriculum to help develop Global Citizens.

Pupil Led—Teacher Prompted: EthCo is not a topic, but rather an open ended process which teachers are free to adapt to their own curricular needs. It is envisaged that EthCo will run as an enterprise activity based on a real task, and is set up to provide appropriate learning outcomes within ACfE. As such EthCo encourages interdisciplinary learning between, and across the Curricular areas. It is focused on international education, and is designed to fit in with a range of existing initiatives available to schools, such as Eco Schools, financial education, social enterprise and others. Each task facilitates learning via a thinking/discussing phase, a research phase and a doing phase, and finishes on a demonstration of learning outcome. Timescale for the task is at the discretion of staff.

The EthCo tasks are not set to any particular Curriculum for Excellence level and Teachers may adapt them to suit their purposes. In all cases this is best done by matching the learning to the curricular level being taught, however it is perfectly acceptable to adapt the task content, or reduce or extend the scope of the task, as long as the EthCo learning outcomes for the task and your aims are met.

The tasks are numbered only to ease identification and not to indicate an order of work.

Hints, tips and resources are detailed for each task in tandem with suggested links to existing initiatives.

Our website containing additional information and resources is available at www.EthCo.org.uk

The Queensland Rich Task project is acknowledged for the inspiration for this task format.

EthCo Interdisciplinary Tasks

The MDGs and Child Health

Aimed at a Curriculum for Excellence at all levels

Working to improve child health around the World.

Improving the health of children under the age of five world-wide is of major concern for the United Nations. Children are our future, but they are at risk not just in developed countries but also in developing countries. This task sets out to raise awareness amongst pupils in Scotland of the problems which affect young children under the age of five, with particular regard to the aims of the UN under the Millennium Development Goals. Pupils will work together in small groups, sharing the tasks, and will demonstrate their findings to a chosen audience. Use of Internet resources will play a key part in this task.

Which of the Millennium Development Goals sets out to improve child health and reduce child mortality? What are its aims? Investigate each of the aims and re-write them in your own words. Why was it necessary to set such an MDG? Does the UN envisage being able to meet its targets? Investigate and report.

What are the main causes of ill-health for children under five? Which are the most severe and can result in the death of the child? Investigate child health and mortality in two diverse countries (at least one of which should be a developing country) of your choice. Are the main health issues and causes of death the same in both countries? Investigate and report.

In the UK and many developed countries, when a child contracts measles, it is very seldom that it leads to the death of the child. Is this the same in developing countries? Investigate and report.

What about young children in Scotland? Do the same issues affect them?

Disease, malnutrition, problems arising from inadequate and/or contaminated water supplies are just some of the issues which can lead to the death of a child. Which programmes are the UN putting in place to help alleviate such problems? Investigate, analyse and report.

When UNICEF contracts with companies to provide vaccinations for diseases, do the children receive the same vaccinations as we do? Does UNICEF have to pay for the vaccines? Investigate and report.

The specific branch of the UN dealing with child health is UNICEF. What does UNICEF stand for? How does it work? Who funds its work? Does it work in partnership with any other organisation? Investigate, analyse and report.

Children with disability are often more vulnerable to particular diseases and malnutrition. Which are the main issues which affect such children? Are there issues which are only specific to children with disability? Investigate, analyse and report.

Can you find out facts about young children in your area and what affects them?

Social and economic factors play a large part in the opportunities open to young children in terms of health care and sanitation. What are some of the social and economical factors which affect young children? Are these the same for the countries which you are studying. Do they vary in their effect on the children, depending on climate, geographical location, wealth, poverty, Government will? Investigate and compare, analyse and report.

Are there any current epidemics which are affecting very young children? Investigate. How has this come about? What are the difficulties facing those who are attempting to provide aid to vulnerable children? Is there any end in sight to the epidemic? How would you make conditions better for the children if you were able to intervene? Investigate, analyse and report.

The presentation for this task should aim to highlight the problems facing under-5s in today's World, particularly in developing countries, identifying the greatest threats to young children and how the implementation of the Millennium Development Goals is gradually making a difference. Pupils should collate their findings and prepare a visual presentation: (the use of digital technology is to be encouraged) using still and moving images if possible, reporting their findings in conjunction with the imagery to a chosen audience. The audience should then be encouraged to ask appropriate and informed questions of the pupils.

Planning and developing the task:

Staff are free to develop this task in a manner which suits the individual needs of the school, as long as the EthCo learning outcomes are achieved.

The planning can include any CfE curricular area which has a natural link with the task, and can be designed to suit the strengths of the school and the CfE level of the pupils involved

The Ethco Learning outcomes for this task are :

- To learn about the 'Millennium Development Goals', their development and implications for the world community.
- To learn about ethics and develop the ability to recognise and demonstrate ethical behaviour.
- To learn about Scotland's contribution to the Millennium Development Goals.
- To develop skills in learning, research, presentation, discussion and argument.

Resources, hints and tips:

Open web searches can be very fruitful sources of information but the results need constant critical support and supervision from the teacher to ensure suitability. Some notes on the use of 'Philosophical Inquiry' are provided.

There are clear links to: 'Enterprising approaches to learning and teaching', 'Entrepreneurial learning', 'Vocational and work based learning', and 'Careers education'.

Some issues which might be explored are: aid organisations, drug companies, immunisation programmes, global economy, local economies, education of parents in relation to the health of their children, religious and moral issues, sexually transmitted diseases, teenage/young/unmarried mothers, wealth, poverty, geographical location, environmental issues, human rights, political awareness, persecution, civil unrest, etc., etc., etc

Class organisation: To provide the teams for the demonstration, it is necessary to work in groups. Best results often come when the principles of cooperative or collaborative learning are employed. Use of 'Philosophical Inquiry' or similar can assist the discussion of the issues involved. Adequate encouragement, time, resources and teacher support should be given to facilitate a high level of research, discovery and sharing by the pupils. The sections in the full bold outline should be taught by the teacher to ensure coverage and understanding.

The demonstration of learning should take the form suggested and to an appropriate audience. The audience can be drawn from the community and represent a range of interests, prizes may be awarded by the school as appropriate. The event may be videoed, then shown to and analysed by a larger audience.

Other variations of the presentation are possible depending on the aspirations of the school.

The assessment of performance of the task should be made by staff using the criteria below. The assessment of the individual should also include assessment of their contribution to the task and individual performance in class work, related to the appropriate CfE Learning Outcomes.

CfE Curricular Areas , Levels, and capacities.

Many of the CfE curricular areas : Expressive Arts, Health and Wellbeing, Languages, Mathematics, Religious and moral education, Science, Social Studies, and Technologies, etc., have CfE learning outcomes which can be contributed to by completing this task and are shown on the back page.

The full extent of this contribution, and indeed whether the outcome can be satisfied entirely, depends on the teacher's individual planning.

When planning a task the appropriate learning outcomes for the level being taught should be applied.

Clearly in completing this task, impact will be made on the CfE capacities of 'Successful Learners, Effective Contributors, Confident Individuals and Responsible Citizens'

Assessment of the task:

The demonstration of learning in the task is assessed as 'high quality', 'quality', 'acceptable' or 'fair' using the following descriptors.

In a group demonstration, all members are given the same task award. Individual performance should be assessed and reported in a formative manner using the appropriate CfE learning outcomes. The individual contribution to the task should also be commented upon.

A high quality demonstration of learning is evidenced by:

A clear statement showing understanding of the issues involved in child health and mortality, and the direct effect of cultural, social and political factors.

Clear demonstration of understanding of ethics and standards. Clear demonstration of how this should apply and be monitored.

Evidence of consideration and understanding in depth of the benefits to developing countries of improving child health.

Showing good knowledge of the Millennium Development Goals, their impact on the developing countries.

High presentation skills with confident responses to questioning showing excellent background knowledge.

An acceptable demonstration of learning is evidenced by:

A clear statement of the issues involved in child health and mortality, and the direct effect of cultural, social and political factors.

Clear demonstration of understanding of ethics and standards. Clear demonstration of how this should apply.

Evidence of consideration and understanding of the benefits to developing countries of improving child health.

Showing knowledge of the Millennium Development Goals and their impact on the developing countries.

Good presentation skills with responses to questioning showing good background knowledge.
