

The EthCo Interdisciplinary Tasks

Your future role: An Ethical Scotland in the Global Economy

4. Working with Developing Countries

Aimed at a Curriculum for Excellence at all levels

Developing Global Citizens through An Interdisciplinary Approach

EthCo sets out to provide a task-based framework to allow young people to explore the United Nation's Millennium Development Goals, and how they impact on world poverty and growth. The concept of ethics in business is also investigated, and pupils will contextualise that within Scotland's place in the world economy. Through EthCo, pupils will be encouraged to see how the choices made by individuals within businesses, organisations and communities impact on economic life in their own and other countries. Using action-based enterprise activities they will take the first steps towards 'making a difference', through positive challenges to existing practices, illustrating that consumer and citizen power can impact on poverty reduction and economic success. Pupils will learn about, and raise awareness of, the 'Millennium Development Goals' to their families, their communities and local businesses. Young people are the employers, employees, and community activists of the future and EthCo hopes to embed a global perspective for the longer term. They, along with their teachers and their communities, hold the key to implementing actions which impact on the Millennium Development Goals. It is hoped that their energy and hope for the future may be harnessed, and their actions and attitudes affected, by learning global Citizenship through these tasks.

EthCo will provide approaches and materials within a 'Curriculum for Excellence' to link together Development Education, Enterprise Education, Financial awareness, understanding of business, citizenship education, education for sustainable development, and other cross-cutting themes. These are brought together in the EthCo interdisciplinary Tasks and, since the tasks contribute to many of the Learning Outcomes in the Curricular Areas of CfE, can be built in as part of the on-going curriculum to help develop Global Citizens.

Pupil Led—Teacher Prompted: EthCo is not a topic, but rather an open ended process which teachers are free to adapt to their own curricular needs. It is envisaged that EthCo will run as an enterprise activity based on a real task, and is set up to provide appropriate learning outcomes within ACfE. As such EthCo encourages interdisciplinary learning between, and across the Curricular areas. It is focused on international education, and is designed to fit in with a range of existing initiatives available to schools, such as Eco Schools, financial education, social enterprise and others. Each task facilitates learning via a thinking/discussing phase, a research phase and a doing phase, and finishes on a demonstration of learning outcome. Timescale for the task is at the discretion of staff.

The EthCo tasks are not set to any particular Curriculum for Excellence level and Teachers may adapt them to suit their purposes. In all cases this is best done by matching the learning to the curricular level being taught, however it is perfectly acceptable to adapt the task content, or reduce or extend the scope of the task, as long as the EthCo learning outcomes for the task and your aims are met.

The tasks are numbered only to ease identification and not to indicate an order of work.

Hints, tips and resources are detailed for each task in tandem with suggested links to existing initiatives.

Our website containing additional information and resources is available at www.EthCo.org.uk

The Queensland Rich Task project is acknowledged for the inspiration for this task format.

EthCo Interdisciplinary Tasks

Working with Developing Countries

Aimed at a Curriculum for Excellence at all levels

Working with Developing Countries to deliver the Millennium Development Goals.

This task is a consideration of finance and ethics when working with Developing Countries. Pupils will explore this concept and apply the principles in a hypothetical company created by each group. Pupils will also work together to explore the 'Millennium Development Goals' and their contribution to the peoples of the World. The demonstration of learning will take the form of a presentation by each group of their proposed company to a chosen audience in the form of a 'Company stall and presentation at an international seminar'.

Pupils will explore the concepts of 'direct aid' 'finance', 'labour' and 'trading', and the ethics therein. They will also explore the effects, efficiency and success of these concepts, with particular regard to the living standards of the countries involved. Discussion and role play may be used to clarify the concepts and the ethics involved.

Pupils should investigate how the countries of the World have arrived at their present stage of development and why it has been considered necessary to create the Millennium Development Goals. Pupils should investigate and consider how major events in history have shaped the world of today.

Each group of pupils will form a hypothetical ethical company which will work within one of these concepts, with a theoretical developing country. They will investigate the implications of both ethical and non-ethical behaviour in relation to the concept chosen. Pupils will then develop a stated company ethical code of practice.

Resources will be made available to allow pupils to research the Millennium Development Goals and their purpose, and what has been achieved to date. Internet research will play an integral part.

Direct Aid — how is this financed? How does the aid get to those who need it? How efficient is this? What are the benefits? What are the drawbacks?
Investigate and record.

Labour — what are the skill bases of labour in developing countries? What is the level of education? What is the cost of labour? How ethical are the employment conditions of labour? Why do companies set up in developing countries?
Investigate and record.

The impact of unethical practices such as bribes and personal influence, and dealing with unethical companies should be considered in relation to working with developing countries.

Finance — what is the role of banks? What is micro finance? Why do companies invest in developing countries? What are the benefits? What are the drawbacks?
Investigate and record.

Trading — why do companies trade with companies in other countries? What are the economic consequences? How ethical is this trading? What are the effects on developing countries?
Investigate and record.

The teacher and pupils may develop this task and choose the concepts being considered both in depth and number, appropriate to the CfE level of the pupils.

Pupils in their groups will present their hypothetical company to the chosen audience by preparing and setting up a stall as would be done in an 'International Seminar'. The presentation will show how their company meets the criteria to be considered as 'ethical'. The audience may use critical questioning as required and will feed back their reflection on each company at the end of all the presentations.

Planning and developing the task:

Staff are free to develop this task in a manner which suits the individual needs of the school, as long as the EthCo learning outcomes are achieved. The planning can include any CfE curricular area which has a natural link with the task, and can be designed to suit the strengths of the school.

The Ethco Learning outcomes for this task are :

- To learn about the 'Millennium Development Goals', their development and implications for the world community.
- To learn about the concepts of 'direct aid' 'finance', 'labour' and 'trading', and the ethics therein.
- To learn about Scotland's contribution to the Millennium Development Goals.
- To develop skills in learning, research, presentation, discussion and argument.

Resources, hints and tips:

Resources to use, web sites for reference and sources of information are listed as an addendum. Open web searches can be very fruitful sources of information but the results need constant critical support and supervision from the teacher to ensure suitability.

Some notes on the use of 'Philosophical Inquiry' are also provided.

There are clear links to: 'Enterprising approaches to learning and teaching', 'Entrepreneurial learning', 'Vocational and work based learning', and 'Careers education'.

Some issues which might be explored are: aid organisations, financial institutions, micro finance, company investment, the greedy company, unethical dealing, bid rigging, child labour, unions, environmental issues, sustainable issues, profits and profit distribution, human rights, political awareness, selling, the entrepreneur, The Industrial revolution, slavery, cheap labour, education, universities, workforce skills, apartheid, , etc., etc., etc.

Class organisation: To provide the teams for the demonstration, it is necessary to work in groups. Best results often come when the principles of cooperative or collaborative learning are employed. Use of 'Philosophical Inquiry' or similar can assist the discussion of the issues involved. Adequate encouragement, time, resources and teacher support should be given to facilitate a high level of research, discovery and sharing by the pupils. The sections in the full bold outline should be taught by the teacher to ensure coverage and understanding.

The demonstration of learning should take the form of a stall and presentation with the groups presenting their hypothetical company to an audience and responding to critical questioning. The audience can be drawn from the community and represent a range of interests, prizes may be awarded by the school as appropriate. This debate can be live in front of peers, or a wider audience, or may be videoed, then shown to and analysed by the larger audience. Other variations of the presentation are possible depending on the aspirations of the school.

The assessment of performance of the task should be made by staff using the criteria below. The assessment of the individual should also include assessment of their contribution to the task and individual performance in class work, related to the appropriate CfE Learning Outcomes.

CfE Curricular Areas , Levels, and capacities.

Many of the CfE curricular areas : Expressive Arts, Health and Wellbeing, Languages, Mathematics, Religious and moral education, Science, Social Studies, and Technologies, etc., have CfE learning outcomes which can be contributed to by completing this task and are shown on the back page.

The full extent of this contribution, and indeed whether the outcome can be satisfied entirely, depends on the teacher's individual planning.

When planning a task the appropriate learning outcomes for the level being taught should be applied.

Clearly in completing this task, impact will be made on the CfE capacities of 'Successful Learners, Effective Contributors, Confident Individuals and Responsible Citizens'

Assessment of the task:

The demonstration of learning in the task is assessed as 'high quality', 'quality', 'acceptable' or 'fair' using the following descriptors.

In a group demonstration, all members are given the same task award. Individual performance should be assessed and reported in a formative manner using the appropriate CfE learning outcomes. The individual contribution to the task should also be commented upon.

A high quality demonstration of learning is evidenced by:

A clear statement of the name of the company, its purpose and intent with detail on the impact anticipated.

Clear demonstration of development of ethical policy and standards. Clear demonstration of how this will apply and be monitored.

Evidence of consideration and understanding in depth of the chosen concept and its impact

Showing good knowledge of the Millennium Development Goals, their impact on the developing countries and how this company will contribute.

High presentation skills with confident responses to questioning showing excellent background knowledge.

An acceptable demonstration of learning is evidenced by:

A clear statement of the name of the company, its purpose and intent.

Clear demonstration of development of ethical policy and standards. Clear demonstration of how this will apply and be monitored.

Evidence of consideration and understanding of the chosen concept.

Showing knowledge of the Millennium Development Goals and their impact on the developing countries.

Good presentation skills with responses to questioning showing good background knowledge.
